Since September 11, 1973, in Santiago de Chile and in other places in Chile, the above-named have:

- through the use and threat of force abolished the order established by the Constitution of Chile and the laws enacted by the legislative bodies;
- through the use of force prevented the officiating President of Chile, the members of his Government and the legislative bodies from exercising their constitutional powers;
- through the use of force and arbitrary measures directed against sections of the Chilean population violated domestic peace and the human dignity and physical security of a large number of citizens;
- through the use and threat of force impeded the exercise of jurisdiction in accordance with the Constitution.
